PUBLIC INVITED TO ART IN THE GARDEN AT LONDONWOOD MAY 6

Springtime blooms will be the backdrop for arts and crafts at the 2017 Art in the Garden on Saturday, May 6, at Lendonwood Gardens in Grove. The public is invited to enjoy arts and crafts for display and sale at the botanical garden located at 1308 Har-Ber Road.

Admission will be free for this special event at Lendonwood. From 9 a.m. to 2 p.m., booths set throughout the garden will display a wide variety of works for sale by the artists, ranging from hand-made jewelry to pottery to quilts to paintings. Artists will include professionals as well as young students and accomplished craftsmen.

Visitors browse the arts and crafts from a past Art in the Garden at Lendonwood Gardens. The 2017 event will be held on Saturday, May 6, at the public botanical garden at 1308 Har-Ber Road in Grove. Local artists will have their works for display and sale at booths set throughout the garden, which is at peak springtime bloom. There is no admission charge for the special event, which will be from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m.

Refreshments also will be available for purchase at the Boy Scouts booth. Proceeds from the refreshments booth will be used to help send Scouts to summer camp.

“We are always delighted to share the works of many talented artists and artisans in our area,” said Cindy Reynolds, Lendonwood board member who is coordinating the event. “It’s a great opportunity to enjoy the arts and a beautiful garden at the same time.”

Currently, Lendonwood is abloom with rhododendrons, peonies, roses and more. Colorful Japanese maples line the pathways, along with hostas, viburnums and other plants.

Lendonwood is open year-round during daylight hours. The eight-acre garden is operated by a local board of directors with the help of volunteers.
